

Many local families cannot afford to feed their pets

They need your help

Please donate through your local food bank and collection sites

Please help people keep their pets

Family pets are being surrendered to animal shelters or set free across the country as household budgets are stretched thin in these tough economic times. By donating pet food and supplies to local food banks, families in need can get help to feed and keep their precious pets. When you buy food and supplies for your precious pet, please purchase a little extra to donate.

See our list of Partner collection sites and local food banks below. Check back here often for an expanded list as our new food assistance program grows.
